

Modern day history

4/3/21

Yesterday, your task was to write a diary entry about what it's like for a child during school closure.

Today, we're going to think about another primary source of information: an object.

What objects can you think of that are connected to lockdown / school closure?

Some possible answers:

Your task today is to think of an object that is connected to your experience of school closure. It doesn't have to be any of the things on the last page – it could be anything that has been important to you.

Draw or take a photo of your object, then write about why it has been important to you. You can choose how you do this.

You might want to make a poster, write a poem, draw a comic strip... it's up to you!

Please remember that the purpose of your work is to tell people in the future what it was like going to Scotholme School in 2021.
