Is it ok to be different?

PHILOSOPHY: LESSON 2

We are all different!

There are lots of people in the world, each one of them are different.

There's no one quite like you!

Can you think of some of the things that make us different?

What makes us different?

Hair colour

Eye colour

Skin colour

Religion

Age

Height

Where we live

Our likes and dislikes

And so many more!

Where we live

We're going to be focusing on the different places that we live.

Can you think of the different places that people may live?

What sort of houses might people live in?

What might you find in a persons home?

Let's look at Awande- she lives in cape town

Awande is 3 years old.

This is Awande's home. It is cold and lets in the rain.

Awande helps to sweep the floor at home.

Awande's home in Cape town: Africa

This is Awande's home. It is made of zinc and chip wood and is cold and lets in the rain.

What is similar and different about your home and Awande's home?

What do you think it would be like living in this home?

Your home

Can you draw a picture of your home and talk about the similarities and differences between your home and Awande's home?

What do you do to help around the house?

What is your house made out of?

Why might your houses be different?

Final thoughts

Is it ok that your houses are different?

Do you still both have a place to sleep/
eat and play?

Are you both still happy?

Is it ok that you are different?
